Newland was returning to Appleton about 1:30 Friday morning on Highway 47 when suddenly, a large shepherd dog hurled himself at the machine, upsetting it and causing him to take a bad fall. Luckily, the officer fell clear of the machine and was not injured beyond minor cuts and scratches. When he arose the dog had disappeared.

HEAVY CALENDARS FAILED TO SLOW UP LEGISLATORS

Period Just Completed Marked One of the Hardest Weeks of the Session

Madison —(AP)—Weighty calendars confronting Wisconsin's law makers failed to slow up the task of legislating during the week although the senate was forced into four night sessions in order to complete scheduled work.

The period marked one of the hardest weeks of the session, although the procedure of legislation lacked the upheavals and warm debates of other weeks. One of the outstanding bills passed by the upper house in night meeting was the Koppel bill calling for a minimum tax of $5 on all persons enjoying independent income, the first similar bill introduced.

Another move to increase legislative pay met with favor in the senate when the body adopted a resolution by Senator Teasdale providing a $10 per day salary for each member while in session and limiting the amount to $1,000 total.

Engrossment of a bill by Assemblyman Schauer and calling for compulsory liability insurance for motorists was ordered by the lower house. A bill providing for an interim committee to investigate the tubercular testing of cattle system in the state was killed. A senate bill for certain tests preceding the issuance of special licenses to automobile drivers met a similar fate in the assembly.

The lower house refused to pass over the governor's veto of a bill making attendance at county highway commission at the annual road school optional. The senate had previously voted to override the executive's veto. Abolishment of the state humane office position was favored by the senate with engrossment of a bill to that effect. A bill to abolish the Board of Normal School Regents was killed, however. Boxing received senatorial sanction when a bill providing for ten round decision bouts was passed.

Increased educational opportunities for rural children would be afforded by the provisions of a bill engrossed in the senate. It would provide two years of high school training for communities lacking regular high schools. Exemption of farm products such as grains, fruits, vegetables was provided in a bill passed by the senate. It now goes to the lower house for action.

Salisbury and Miss Mae Webster, commercial teachers accompanied the students.

Special demonstrations were given on the multigraph, addressograph, Elliott-Fischer, dictaphone, comptometer, and six-column billing machine. The students also watched the operation of other machines with which they were somewhat familiar.

Sales students of the department have worked two afternoons a week for 24 weeks in local stores to get practical experience together with the class work on other days. Practice work has been done by students in about 12 offices this year, Miss Salisbury stated.

MORE BUILDING IS STARTED HERE THIS YEAR, SURVEY SHOWS

City Ranks Third in State in New Construction Undertaken During April

Appleton had the third highest estimated amount of new construction started in April in nine Wisconsin cities of about the same size, according to the national monthly building survey completed by the S. W. Strauss company. The report shows that building permits authorizing construction estimated $274,012 were issued here in that month as compared with $102,955 issued in the same month last year.

Appleton's increase therefore is at most 150 per cent. The report shows that in 503 cities in which the national survey was taken, a loss of 19 per cent over the previous year was shown. The report states:

"The April total for the 503 cities, representing more than 70 per cent of the population of the country, was $281,173,762 compared with $149,141,187 in April, 1926, and $339,186,273 in March this year."

"With the fourth month of the year thus showing the same proportion of loss which was shown in January, the building permit volume for the first third of the years develops a shrinkage between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 from the first third of 1926. The loss during March and April alone was nearly $100,000,000."

"A decline in building volume during the summer is plainly indicated by these reports, direct from the municipal building departments in every state in the union. They also indicate that the slowing down has developed in practically all sections of the country."

"The only important building states which continue to show are Illinois, which is supported by the strong position of Chicago, Ohio and Wisconsin."

The April permit totals reported by nine cities of about the same size as Appleton were as follows:

	1927	1926
Appleton	$274,012	$102,955
Kenosha	185,066	479,479
Madison	491,567	533,487
Manitowish	126,556	131,721
Oshkosh	192,923	164,305
Racine	212,536	270,242
Sheboygan	217,739	226,131
Superior	50,755	105,191
Van Claine	234,459	128,845

The total building permits issued by the principal Wisconsin cities during April amounted to $3,317,387, according to the survey, while the total for April, 1926, was $3,108,328.

The meeting in the nature of a state Guernsey field day will be called the "Danny Duff picnic," the name being taken from the Guernseys by that name. Music, and an address by some leader in the dairy industry are being arranged.

Wisconsin Was Admitted to Union 79 Years Ago

Wisconsin was admitted to the union as a state 79 years ago, May 23, 1848. Books on the history and development of the state may be found at the Appleton public library and a list of books on early Wisconsin history has been compiled by the librarians.

FEWER STUDENTS EXPECTED IN HIGH SCHOOL NEXT YEAR

Decrease Believed Due to Reduction to Normalcy in Junior School Attendance.

Enrollment at Appleton high school will be lower next year than for the past term, according to statistics of advance registration at the school this month. The sophomore class will show the greatest loss, 22 students, by the present figures.

Two hundred and ninety sophomores will enter the school from the Wilson, Roosevelt, McKinley, and St. Joseph Junior high schools, it was stated. Of these, 113 will come from the Wilson, 127 from the Roosevelt, 37 from McKinley and three from St. Joseph schools. Juniors and seniors enrolled number 505, making a total enrollment of 795 for next year. It is estimated that about 70 of these pupils will leave Appleton, decreasing the enrollment to about 725. There are about 800 pupils in the school this year.

The decrease is largely due to the reduction to normalcy of the junior high school attendance, it was said. When the new junior high schools were built three years ago, many former school pupils returned for the junior and senior high school work. This influx now has passed, leaving a normal enrollment.

Courses having the largest enrollment for next year are: modern languages, manual arts, commercial, public speaking, chemistry and physics. The home economics and music courses are open to further enrollment, it was announced.

LEGISLATORS LIKE WORD "FORWARD" AS ENDING

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin's motto, "FORWARD" has uses other than decorative.

Besides being on all the hardware in the Capitol and being imprinted on official documents, letters and state flags, it is furnishing a splendid ending for many speeches before the legislature and its committees.

Opponents of bills before the lawmakers find it very convenient to say that the measure will "go a long way 'forward' to 'backward'."

FORMER RESIDENT HERE BADLY HURT IN WRECK

MEMORIAL DAY

"To live in hearts we leave behind,
Is not to die." —Campbell.

Always on May 30th of each year we re-member again with quickened pulse "The Boys" who donned their country's uniform and marched away with Grant and Lee, Miles and Pershing.

War's sorrowful memories grow dimmer as the roar of battle fades farther into the past.

But the memory of the brave men who gave everything for their country will never fade. It is altogether fitting that a day be set aside to honor them for the sacrifices they made for us.

SOUND BANKING

The announcement by Calvin Schwenker, Commissioner of Banking of the state of Wisconsin, of two policies of the banking department, are strong indications of Mr. Schwenker's constructive ability and the continued safety of Wisconsin banks while he administers the banking department of the state.

Mr. Schwenker has stated that he would insist that banks carry a second reserve of call loans and commercial paper eligible for rediscount with the Federal Reserve Banks and liquid marketable securities to the extent of twenty per cent of each bank's deposits. This sort of paper, generally carrying a low interest rate but of high grade and easy liquidity, in addition to the requirement that banks carry twenty per cent of their deposits in cash, will practically insure banks from the troubles that have infested the northwest, notably Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas, where banks have invested too great a percentage of their deposits in one form of securities, which, with unfavorable market conditions, have become "frozen", thus forcing the banks to close their doors although most of them were solvent if but given time to liquidate.

If Mr. Schwenker has the authority or can secure legislative action to enforce this idea, he will have accomplished more, we believe, towards safe and sound banking in this state, than any one individual, for a long time to come.

Mr. Schwenker's second announcement is that the banking department of the state will insist that banks pay no more than three per cent interest on time deposits. Mr. Schwenker considers it unsound banking to pay more than three per cent under normal market and investment rates, and that unless banks voluntarily come down to the three per cent basis, the banking department, if an available legitimate means may be found to do so, will compel it. Nearly nine years have passed since the war, with its abnormal profits and high interest rates, and during which time interest rates have gradually returned to normal levels. The sound loans with which banks must line their vaults cannot bring the interest rates that have been obtained, and when interest rates fall, rates on deposits must go down with them. Back of Mr. Schwenker's position in this regard is, we believe, a sound economic principle. Shall idle money in the hands of some be paid at a high interest rate to the detriment of borrowers who must pay a correspondingly higher rate of interest for its use? Mr. Schwenker considers that the interests of a community are advanced when the borrower is favored with a lower rate of interest at the expense of the owner of idle funds "because the borrower is the man who builds up and makes the community prosper." Perhaps there is no one single thing in any community that so affects its life and prosperity as the stability of its banking institutions; nor is there any private institution in a community that is more of a cooperative undertaking, in which the interests of depositors, stockholders and the community are so mutually beneficial. The sound economic principle, therefore, indicates a comprehensive understanding by the banking department of the state of the business and a far-sighted policy which, if he is unhampered, will tend to place Wisconsin banks in a position of greater safety.

THE BRITISH ATTITUDE

George Ade, the famous humorist, returning from a trip to England, says that the island is bluer than blue. He says that the British are more than blue at the heart, that they are our commercial supremacy and that they are a great people.

We assume that Mr. Ade is a great off another of his "fables in slang" and that he is sincere in this report on the attitude of Great Britain toward America and we deplore that such a feeling has arisen.

Yet what can we do to make it different? Shall we give up our commercial supremacy, won, surely in a free field with a heavy competition? A thousand times, no. Shall we forgive England the debt of billions owing to the taxpayers of the United States? Again a thousand times, no.

It is none of our fault that these things are as they are. Our commercial supremacy is due to our superior talents in this line and as a result of those talents we had accumulated enough money to lend to Great Britain when she needed it tremendously.

Under those circumstances we consider that the British have no right to their attitude. It is utterly unreasonable and unfair. As it becomes clearer that such a feeling exists and persists, it becomes clearer that it is a case of sour grapes, resentment that the young shoot from the mother stem could outdo the parent stalk in productivity.

The attitude is not worthy of a splendid nation like Great Britain. It would be more like some swaggering, contemptuous nation to feel that way about the thing. Britain, with her vaunted sportsmanship, should be just good sport enough to say, "Well, Uncle Sam, we're good but you're better and we wish you the best of luck. We'll fight for world trade, but in a friendly fashion, and may the best man win."

GOOD WILL FLIGHT

Major Dargue, commander of the recent good will flight around South America, will accompany a prominent business man on a seven weeks' tour of the United States in the interest of South American commerce. This action shows that the American government is awake to the possibilities of capitalizing on the recent flight. That trip was more than a gesture of military preparedness or an air reconnaissance of the South American countries. It was a gesture of good will, and if it paved the way for increased commercial relations between the two Americas, as Major Dargue's coming business trip would make it, the flight will have proved itself of immense value.

There has been a rapidly growing anti-American sentiment in many of the South American countries of late, because of a misunderstanding on their part of our activities in Nicaragua and of our dispute with Mexico over the land seizure act. Some of this bitterness against us no doubt is the result of propaganda by our trade rivals, who would be glad to see strained relations between the two Americas. South America is our best customer and the annual trade amounts to many millions of dollars. A number of European countries have watched the growth of this business with envious eyes, and some of them have stooped to almost any practice to grab it away from the United States.

Major Dargue's trip should give American business men a better understanding of the South American customers' viewpoint and his problems and make for more amicable relations all the way around. Anything that increases the goodwill between the Americas is eminently worth while and should be encouraged, for the countries to the south of us are in the first stages of a great commercial and industrial development and will be not only valuable customers, but important allies in the not distant future if they are treated fairly.

OLD MASTERS

"What is the real good?"
I asked in missing mood.

Order, said the last court;
Knowledge, said the school;
Truth, said the wise man;
Peace, said the poet;
Love, said the monk;
Beauty, said the artist;
Power, said the statesman;
Honor, said the soldier;
Faith, said the priest;
Justice, said the lawyer;
And the old man said:
"The answer is all these."

State my love for you,
The answer is all these.

With within my bosom,
The answer is all these.

With heart and hand,
The answer is all these.

With love and life,
The answer is all these.

With all that I am,
The answer is all these.

With all that I have,
The answer is all these.

With all that I do,
The answer is all these.

With all that I am,
The answer is all these.

FALLACIES WE RELUCT TO RELINQUISH

I.—CREAMS IN THE SKIN GAME

One reader writes that her left eyelid droops and asks for a massage cream which will strengthen it. She says the eyelid has drooped since childhood when she had spasms.

Another requests recipes for good inexpensive cleansing cream, astringent cream and tissue cream. Still another wants some good building cream which will fill out hollows and make flabby or sagging flesh firm and plump.

It is difficult to answer such inquiries briefly and honestly without seeming facetious, sarcastic or unempathetic. It is even more difficult to tell the truth about such matters without offending people who cherish certain traditions or fancies and arousing the animosity of people who profit by exploiting popular credulity. So I shall confirm myself in this article to the assertion of unquestionable physiological facts and leave the reader to reach his or her own conclusion therefrom.

No known food or nutrient, chemical or medicinal, applied to the skin, will build up, fatten, plump, strengthen, feed, nourish or develop the skin or underlying tissue or part.

Astringents contract or shrink certain tissues. The astringent action of alum on the mucous membrane lining of the mouth or on a raw or bleeding wound is familiar to everybody. On the skin the action of astringents is limited to a decrease of secretion of sebum (skin oil) or sweat. No astringent will actually shrink tissue under the skin. No astringent will take up the slack or flabby or sagging tissues. No astringent will reduce the size of a structure or part.

A general rule for young persons having plenty of sebum (oil) is not too much, and therefore it is a mistake for young persons to use any grease, cream or ointment which purports to be good for the complexion. On the other hand, older persons often have a deficiency of the natural skin oil, and so an older person may advantageously use such cosmetics as good freshly made cold cream (ointment of rose water). Young persons should understand that plain soap and water is good for their complexion, whereas persons with older, drier skin should avoid soap and water and rather cleanse the face with pure fresh cold cream or other cosmetic.

The best cold cream is that which your own druggist makes to order, after the formula of the local standard formulae, the pharmacopoeia, for ointment or rose water (Une Aquea Rosae). Ready made "creams" are undesirable if this perfect cosmetic can be had. The making of cold cream is a difficult art and so I do not advise the reader to attempt it for herself.

Who was the actress whose press agent invented the milk bath? Same old idea, you see, but today if a press agent should spring such a yarn he would undoubtedly use high grade cream in place of mere milk.

Real cream is just as good for the complexion as potatoes or spaghetti are, internally or externally applied.

Recently there was published some staggering figures about the annual cosmetic bill of the country. With due apology to Tad, I think most of it is the bunk.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Better Not Trifle With Goiter

Please tell me what to apply to a lump in order to get relief from a goiter. . . . (Miss L. T.)

Answer—I advise you not to trifle with such a condition. It requires medical attention.

Corn Remedy

Will you kindly publish once more the formula for some kind of ointment for corns (as a remedy for corns and calluses on the feet)? (G. W.)

Answer—A solution of 20 grains of salicylic acid in half an ounce of flexible collodion, painted over the corn or callus or wart once daily for a week or 10 days, will usually cause the wart, corn or callus to soften and come away. Keep it off the normal skin and keep the wart or bottle tightly corked, and keep the solution off the inside of the neck of the vial.

Just Look at 'Em

Please send me information on the affirmative side of the question "Resolved, that most people eat too much." (Miss F. A.)

Answer—The affirmative side has some weight. (Copyright John F. Dillon company.)

SHERLOCK HOLMES — HIMSELF

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

A GREAT NOVEL ABOUT THE CIVIL WAR

How to describe a really great book; how to suggest its flavor, its charm; how to make the few words at my disposal make others want to read the book for themselves? I feel baffled every time I attempt it. In the case of an ordinary book it is comparatively easy, but when a real work of art is under discussion, I become painfully conscious of the feeling that no matter what I may say, it will be inadequate and that many who ought to be cheered and charmed by the book will not be encouraged to read it because I did not put the case strongly enough.

That is the feeling I have about "Marching On," by James Fraser, more strongly than about any book I have read for some months. It is a beautiful novel, every word of it. I am certain that anyone who knows the difference between a real work of art and an ordinary book will feel that exaltation on reading it that comes only occasionally.

Among all the novels and stories about the Civil war that I have ever read, and they are very numerous, there is only one that in my opinion is greater than any other. It is "The Red Badge of Courage," by Stephen Crane. "The Red Badge of Courage," by the side of it Winston Churchill's "The Crisis" is shabby stuff and most of the Civil war novels, Mary Johnston's among them, seem theatrical.

"Marching On," in fact, recalls "The Red Badge of Courage," more than any other book. In the latter a northern boy is caught in the war machine and blunders through the conflict, hardly knowing what it was all about, bewildered, as different from the traditional soldier of fiction as is very well possible. In "Marching On," a southern boy goes through about the same process. With his company from North Carolina he marches and marches some more and marches some more. Life becomes a phantasmagoria of marching. The war to his bewildered imagination merely is "marching on."

Two or three battle scenes are described, but briefly, and then life in a northern prison camp in which the hero of the book is confined for a year or two. Then the exchange and the return home of the "emancipated" southern boy at the time when Lee's army is beginning to break in front of Richmond. Finally the breakdown of the eastern power between the planters and the slaveless white class when the devastation of the war makes it possible for James Fraser, the hero of the novel, to marry Stewart Prevost, the former wealthy planter's daughter.

That is about all, so far as mere story goes, but underneath the story there is a kind of allegorical current about the spirit of life and history. The same thing is true of the title, "Marching On," James Fraser one night on the battlefield hears the Union soldiers sing about John Brown whose soul, they alleged, was "marching on." To him, as to the other southerners, the idea seems fantastic. But before the war is over he gets an inkling of the fact that the spirit of history, of human progress, of life was against the south. He was fighting for a cause that was not doomed by the very genius of life but whose triumph would have meant doom for millions of the best people of the south, all the slaveless whites like himself, who were fast being reduced to serfdom. James Fraser would not have married Stewart Prevost if the south had won. His marriage is emblematic of the dawn of hope for the common people of the south, as compared with the welfare of a few planters. History was "marching on" in spite of everything James Fraser and the millions of his fellow soldiers could do to prevent its progress.

But do not get the impression that there is any preaching in the book. All I have tried to put into the preceding paragraph is implicit in the story. James Fraser is an artist, not a preacher. In this respect he surpasses John Galsworthy, whose method is very similar. Galsworthy is said to have remarked, "Watch James Fraser," thereby recognizing the American as a disciple of his, but Fraser surpasses his master in giving his tale spiritual meaning without indicating it in words. Galsworthy sometimes suggests the preacher, James Fraser never. It is only after you have read the book as a touching human story that you get your second and third view of it and realize that it was an interpretation of history. The art with which it is done is almost perfect.

The Question Box

Q. Who signed the first treaty drawn up in our Central States? I. C. R.

A. Archer B. Hulbert answers this question as follows: "Washington signed the first treaty ever drawn up in the Central West, with old Van Buren and Villiers, in a misty rain, at Fort Necessity."

Q. Where did Hell Gate in New York City get its name? P. D. H.

A. Some writers say that the name Hell Gate is derived from the Dutch word Hellegate, which means a gate of Hell. Others say it is derived from Hellogat, which means "the whirling strait." The place was named on account of the whirlpool which made navigation dangerous. The same historians call attention to the origin of the word Manhattan. One group insists that it means "the people of the whirlpool" and referred to the whirlpool called Hell Gate. These writers say that the Indians were called Manhattans living there.

Q. What word means "of common gender"? M. S.

A. Epicene is the term used.

Q. How long has Alexander Graham Bell been dead? P. M.

A. Bell died August 2, 1922.

Q. When were public lands first given for education? C. M.

A. The Continental Congress in its "Land Ordinance" of May, 1785, dedicated from the public lands which lay west of the thirteen colonies, Lot No. 16 of every township to "the maintenance of public schools within the said township." The policy of giving public lands for education has been continued, and lands and scrip have been granted to a total of 117,244,519 acres, an area nearly equivalent to that of the German Republic.

Q. Is the Mississippi River a tidal river? K. F. L.

A. It is a tidal river only from its mouth as far up as New Orleans.

Q. Is it easier and cheaper to grow rye or wheat? P. J.

A. It is cheaper to grow rye than it is to grow wheat, but not so profitable. Rye can be grown on poor soil and with little soil preparation.

Q. Does the law for the length of time liquor can be sold differ in London and the rest of England? T. G. V.

A. The Licensing Act of 1921 fixed the hours of sale of liquor at 9 hours in London and 8 hours elsewhere, the closing time being 11 P. M. in London and 10 P. M. elsewhere.

Q. How many acres of forest land are owned by farmers? M. H.

A. The Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, estimates that farm wood lots amount to 150,000,000 acres of forest land.

Q. What is the charge for going through Lick Observatory? D. A. S.

A. No charge is made for the tour through this California Observatory. Visitors are admitted from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. daily.

Q. How did it happen that a single command was established for all the armies fighting against Germany? I. A. D.

A. It was the result of the terrific blow struck at the British Army, March 21, 1918, known as the Second Battle of Picardy, when the German Army broke through the line of the Somme, separating the French and British Armies. The subsequent demoralization and almost complete defeat of the allies compelled them to take a step that heretofore they had been unwilling to take.

Q. Is Lon Chaney an American? M. F.

A. He is an American. He was born in Colorado Springs, Colorado, April 1, 1886.

Q. A robin has been pecking at my casement window for three weeks. When the window is opened it flies away. Can you explain this? H. S. B.

A. The Biological Survey says that the actions of the robin you referred to are what is known as shadow boxing. Cardinals are notorious for this. The birds are merely fighting their own reflections. The habit is quite amusing to watchers.

Q. What is the derivation of the word automobile? E. A. S.

A. It was taken from the Greek "auto" meaning self, plus the Latin "mobilis" meaning movable. It is of French origin and is an adjective used as a noun. In its first usage it was applied only to pleasure vehicles or carriages. The term was created to meet the sudden demand for a word to describe the horseless, or self-propelling vehicle.

Q. Has Nome a radio station? I. A. W.

A. There is a large radio station WXX at Nome, Alaska. This is also used as a general public service station.

There's only one correct answer--

"I've added up the figures 10 different times," said the office boy to the boss—"and here are the 10 different answers."

There is only one true answer to what you need in a Straw—and that's the hat you look the best in—and since we have the best of everything else to wear—doesn't it follow that your hat is here?

Fresh from new boxes and woven of new braids—and whether you are combing a 6% or a 7% head—this stock will brush away your troubles!

Two Floors of Good Things to Wear

NO. 11—HIGH SCHOOLS

BY DON E. MOWRY
Secretary, the American Community Advertising Association

Nothing is much more important to a city than good high schools. In particular, a good gymnasium, where the health of the younger generation can be kept at par, is important.

But in these days of rising taxes, good gymnasiums often remain in the thoughtless stage.

New Albany, Ind., has 20,000 people. It wanted a new gymnasium for its high school. It adopted a unique way to get it.

Preferred stock was sold by a

"Gymnasium Corporation" in three days. This bond in $25,000—ample for the building. The stock will be retired by profits from the receipts of games and other functions held in the gym.

Encouraged by this, New Albany decided to build a whole new high school plant. It now is doing it. The building will have cost half a million when finished and will be one of the most modern in the middle west.

Here is quite a record. A city much larger than New Albany might well hesitate before trying to build a $500,000 high school with a grade-A gymnasium as part of its equipment.

SENATE CONCURS ON APPOINTEES MEASURE

Madison—(AP)—Governors of Wisconsin will not be able to remove their appointees at pleasure in the future, according to the provisions of an assembly bill passed by the legislature. The bill by Assemblyman Kasper provides that in order to remove an appointee a governor must show "cause." Passed by both houses the measure will go to Governor Zimmerman for veto or approval early next week.

Another assembly bill introduced by the senate was one by Koenig providing that "all bread, advertised as nutritious, healthful or health restoring must be true to its name."

An assembly bill by Mr. Weller calling for a state supervisor of health conditions in summer camps and resorts met defeat in the upper house. A bill by the committee on Judiciary relating to compensation of members of the legislature, so as to effect repeal such section of the Wisconsin statutes was engrossed. The bill would strike out all sections of the former law providing for a five hundred dollar per session salary. This would permit the legislators to pass a new law instrumental in raising their salaries.

INVITE NURSES TO ATTEND NUTRITION INSTITUTE IN JUNE

Nutritional Problems of Children Will Be Given Special Attention

Milwaukee—(AP)—A nutrition institute taking the place of the annual institute for public health nurses, and devoted to the nutritional problems of children will be held here, June 20 to July 2. The session will be conducted by Dr. William R. P. Harpers, Boston, and his associate, Miss Nabel Skilton.

This institute will be open to professional groups interested in the health and care of children, such as nurses, teachers, social workers and dietitians, and may also be attended by lay persons especially interested in nutrition work within their own families.

The institute will be held under the auspices of the state board of health, and will be sponsored by the directors of the Milwaukee Visiting Nurse society. Dr. C. A. Harper, state health officer, is general chairman. Many state and local organizations are co-operating.

Invitation to attend has been extended to professional workers in nearby cities of neighboring states. Special interest has been shown. It is reported, in Minneapolis and Chicago.

In connection with the regular work lectures on other phases of health work will be given by experts in certain fields.

Through institutes of this kind, nutrition class work has been established in many cities, including Boston, Chicago, Rochester, Grand Rapids, Battle Creek, Indianapolis, Denver, Cleveland, Lincoln, and San Francisco.

"The importance of such a nutrition program," the state health board announced, "lies in the fact that it affords a link between the child, and the home together in an efficient health program. A teacher or nurse with the proper background has a wonderful opportunity to bring the children under her up to proper health standards."

The course will cover about 24 hours' work per week and require four to five hours per day. It will consist of lectures and demonstrations. Three classes of children, each representing a different group of children in the community, will form the demonstration classes, and, of course, a demonstration class will be formed from among the students attending.

Showers, probably tonight and Sunday; not much change in temperature.

Weather Conditions
The low pressure area over the plain states has paused, having moved but little during the past 24 hours. It is causing showers over the middle Mississippi valley northward. A high pressure area over the Lake region, and eastern states is giving away very slowly and the present indications are that this section will be along the line of conflict between the "high" and the "low," with cloudy and cool weather over the weekend, probably with occasional rains.

LEGISLATURE STARTS MEMORIAL HOLIDAY

Madison—(AP)—The legislature Saturday started its Memorial day holiday.

The assemblymen will have had one day more of rest than the senators when they convene Tuesday night. They adjourned late Thursday, having sent with a long calendar was forced to meet Thursday night and Friday.

Because of the rule that neither house may adjourn for more than three days except by joint resolution with the other house, a few assemblymen held a brief session Friday morning, meeting only to dispense with the roll call and adjourn.

Most of the assemblymen had by that time left town to take advantage of the Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday recess, returning to their farms and businesses and possibly taking advantage of the recently passed Thayer bill opening the fishing season early.

The majority of the senators left town Friday afternoon and will have to return Monday night for a session Tuesday at 10 a. m.

INVITE WOMEN'S CLUB OFFICERS TO MEETING

Sheboygan—(AP)—All officers of Wisconsin clubs belonging to the general Federation of Women's clubs have been invited to attend the general federation council meeting in Grand Rapids, Mich., starting next Tuesday and meeting through June 5.

Mrs. Edward Hammett, Sheboygan, officer of the Wisconsin federation, gave out information on the meeting for the Wisconsin women. The Wisconsin club officers were urged to attend because of the convenience of the meeting to this state the general council meetings usually being held at a greater distance from Wisconsin.

Arrangements have been made for reduced fares on two railroads going to the general meeting, and for the Wisconsin delegates to travel with the Illinois delegation from Chicago, Monday.

"The women who are carrying on the actual work of the federation will be greatly helped in their work by hearing the discussions and deliberations of the council," Mrs. Hammett said.

Total attendance at the Grand Rapids meeting is expected to reach several thousand, she declared.

SUNDAY'S GAMES

MONDAY'S GAMES
Menasha at Green Bay.
Kaukauna at Oshkosh.
Neenah at Kimberly.

A new infield shift that will bring a face familiar to old baseball fans who enjoyed games back about 12 to 15 years ago in the old Wisconsin-Illinois loop, which played every day ball and graduated several players to the majors, will greet the Menasha club when Manager C. O. Baetz takes his Appleton nine to the Fox River Valley League game. The revamped lineup is featured by a shift at shortstop and second base when a well known infielder in practice and which should plug the hole which caused an Appleton loss to Kimberly by a one-sided score two weeks ago.

It also places an old hand in the infield to steady the youngsters with words of good advice at times when an error or two is made. Last year in such cases the entire works blew up and the game usually was lost in one frame with the enemy getting at least six runs.

All this leads up to the fact that "Dutch" Brautigan, stellar third baseman of three old W-L loops, has signed an Appleton contract and will appear at shortstop for the locals. Dutch played here about four years ago when Sylvester, an old teammate managed the local team, showing all his old form at third base. Earlier that year he starred as manager of the Minot, N. D. squad.

With Dutch's old head at short to steady the team, Tornow will take care of the bad spot at second base. At first Broekhouse or Radtke will perform with Last at third. In the outer gardens, Bowers and Crowe will stretch field; Friebe and Gosha will be in the infield, right. Broekhouse will catch with Refke as the starting hurler. Mayefsky, a former hurler, will be held in reserve should Refke falter. He is a former Menasha boy and has played there for several years and is said to know the Menasha batsmen, who will face Appleton Sunday, well.

The Baetzmen have no game carded for Monday but can take first place in the loop by a win Sunday, should Neenah lose at Kaukauna, have possibility, and second place, if Appleton takes first Sunday they should hold it Monday while idle.

LEGION SQUAD WINS 1ST KIMBERLY GAME

Kimberly — Though outfit, the American Legion squad won the first game of the 1927 Kimberly Twilight Softball League Friday from the Clubhouse Eagles, taking a 6-5 victory. The Legion could garner only two safe blows off the slants of Behling, while the Clubhouse crew got six from Briggs, but threw the battle away on errors.

The losers scored first in the fourth with two runs, but the Legion tied it in the fifth. In the sixth the Clubhouse team again forced ahead of the Legion with two runs to one for the ex-soldiers. The Clubhouse men added another in the seventh for a two-run lead but the Legion evened matters with two in the eighth and then clinched the game with another in the ninth while the Clubhouse crew went scoreless.

Coaches Work Until 2 A.M. Arranging Grid Schedules

Madison—(AP)—Big Ten football coaches and athletic directors take their schedule making seriously.

Although the games in question were some fifteen months in the offing, the group sat through a six-hour session here which ended about 2 o'clock Friday morning in order to complete the cards for all ten universities.

Since the business of arranging schedules involves gate receipts, running past the ten million dollar mark annually, they argue and smile, snarl and grin as the arduous task proceeds. The most recent session was prolonged past midnight due to the desire of Indiana authorities for two home games, Ohio had four home games in a row and Coach Wiley was reluctant to go to his Ohio team to Bloomington until indications were that the schedules would be sent to the faculty committee for settlement.

"Well, I'll be the goat," said Wiley and he walked to the black board and wrote, "Ohio at Indiana, Oct. 27." That ended the weary session, during which the crowd of twenty directors

C. M. T. C. FAVORS SPORT PROGRAMS

150 Prizes Given for Athletic Work in Summer Military Camps

The important of regulated athletics otherwise known as sports in the up-building of American citizens is given its greatest recognition in the Citizens' Military Training Camps, which now dot the country and most of which will open in a few weeks. This is demonstrated by the fact that the regulation of athletics whereby medical supervision prevents over-indulgence have made sports an integral part of American life and growth. The spirit of fair-play and the necessity of team-work have become glorified in the mind of youth which is prone to rebel at the idea of and abhor the word discipline.

"In fact discipline has always been a beto note to the great majority of the young and conveys to most an implication of punishment. Sport on the other hand, is something else again and is the best system yet evolved for the development of the physique and of liberty loving people. Consequently it is to love of athletics that we owe a great deal in the development of the American race. And it is to this department of the Citizens' Military Training Camps that probably most of the credit for the rapid growth of the movement is due. It has been proven time and time again that the nation of athletes retains its nationhood as long as it retains its regulated athletics."

INHALING THROUGH MOUTH HELPS SWIM

Breathing While Swimming Is Direct Opposite of Natural Breathing

BY A. P. JENSEN

It is the object of these articles on swimming to set forth in simple language the most important principles of the art, to help the beginner to overcome fear of the water and to develop a simple stroke which will give him a good foundation to start him on his way toward being an accomplished swimmer. A knowledge of the proper method of breathing is absolutely necessary for the prospective swimmer to master.

Breathing while swimming is just the opposite to that of natural breathing. A swimmer always breathes through the nose, and exhales through the nose, whichever he chooses for him. The reason for this is that you can get more air in a given time through the mouth than you can through the nose and then exhaling through the nose or the mouth or both to prevent strangling. You should try this easy at first, taking about three seconds to inhale and five to eight to exhale.

A good method of practicing this breathing is to stand in the water about waist deep. Take a short gulp of air through the mouth and then bend forward, submerging the face in the water and force the air out through the nose or mouth, making bubbles. As soon as this is all out or perfectly all out, then raise the head a little above the surface and take another gulp of air through the mouth and then repeat, bending forward and forcing out the air again. This must be practiced continually in order to form the habit of this apparently new and unnatural system of breathing. Do it about ten or twelve times a minute.

The next step is to turn the head to left as it is raised for a new gulp of air. And instead of raising the head straight up from in front, which has tendency to cut off the air from the lungs, it is just turned and the gulp of air taken in over the left shoulder. Breathing in swimming should be done as subconsciously as it is in normal life. If a single drop of water is taken in through the nostrils it is inhaled directly into the lungs and the result is immediate choking and stopping of the breath.

While the water is taken in through the mouth and starts down the wind pipe, the epiglottis involuntarily contracts and prevents the water from entering the lungs.

As you gradually acquire familiarity with the water, try opening the eyes while the face is submerged. This will give you more confidence and you will be able to swim at home in the water. Do not worry about the queer sensation the first few times on opening the eyes under water. This is only a temporary sensation and after a few lessons you will not notice it at all.

These breathing exercises can be practiced at home as well as at the beach. This was proved by the Coast Y. M. C. A., Chicago, when it gave several courses in swimming over the radio this last year. The breathing was practiced in a large dish pan or wash bowl, filled with water, and the same operation was practiced as described above. Do not feel that time spent in this manner is time well lost, because valuable practice can be secured this way.

APPLETON HIGHS WIN AT SOFTBALL

Orange Squad Downs Neenah Highs Here Friday by Score of 9-4

An exchange of pitchers spelled defeat for Coach Ole Jorgensen's Neenah high school softball team Friday afternoon at Jones park in an inter-scholastic battle with the Appleton high squad. Appleton won 9-4, by pitching in four runs in one frame in which a Neenah batsman, who was held out by the Orange team, was removed. He came back the following inning but the greatest damage had been done and he was not as steady as in the opening rounds. The teams clash in a return game at Neenah Tuesday.

Neenah's homecoming batsmen for four innings, aided by several Appleton errors, but he settled down with better support and held the Red scoreless the rest of the way. With the score 4-2 for Neenah, the change of hurlers was made and Appleton ran up a 6-4 lead in the third. Two more came in the seventh and one in the eighth.

Demand, Davis and Kruse hit homers for Appleton, but the latter was called out for failure to touch sacks. Fielding features were furnished by Davis, who took a hit liner behind a third and set his man at first with a perfect aim, and Kohle of Neenah, who accepted eight chances, most of them hard ones, in left field.

For Appleton Lutz and Strutz formed the battery assisted by C. Kuritz, Kruse, Davis, Verbeke, Freiler, Laird, Bauman and Demand. For Neenah Hagan, Nelson, Schlicher, Johnson, Christensen, Gaertner, Green, Bell, Keile and Hall, performed.

NEW VALLEY SPORTS LOSE TO TAXI TEAM

With six of its former stars playing on the opposing team, the Valley lost to the local taxi team in their first start in thirteen this year Friday evening by a score of 3-2. C. K. Tax's being the victor. C. Kuritz hurled the Taxi to the victory by the squeezing of the men who formerly played with the Sports. They started well for the losers, but he was picked for blabs who was called as a back and showed little. The Taxi took several runs off his delivery before he was relieved by Duffner. The Taxi team also won a 4-2 victory over the Taxi team in the last game. Had it been left on the mound a closer game would have resulted. Demand caught for the winners.

APPLETON ACES CARD HARD WEEKEND GAMES

Appleton Aces ball club will play two hard games over the weekend, the first at Freedom and the second at Brandt park Sunday. The undefeated Freedom M. C.'s leaders of the Wolf River loop, will meet at the village and on Monday the Menasha Rounders will be played at Brandt park.

The Aces lost to the Teela Sheet Metals of Oshkosh in their game last Sunday by a score of 8-4, in a battle in the mud at Brandt park. The game was well played considering the muddy field and the drizzle that fell the entire game. Kranzsch of the Aces fanned 16 men while his opponent, Agner got only 2.

COAST TEAMS FAVORED IN 4-A TRACK CONTEST

Philadelphia—(AP)—With the east's defenses apparently shattered, Stanford and Southern California seemed to have a fight among themselves Saturday to decide which would have the distinction of taking intercollegiate A. A. A. track and field team championship on its sixth transcontinental journey in seven years.

The east centered attention on individual laurels in Saturday's 15 championship events at Franklin field. Experts conceded the fight for team honors to the California rivals. Stanford was the favorite, on the strength of setting the elimination pace Friday. The Trojans have held the title two years. Stanford qualified 14 men, Southern California 10.

Dartmouth, with nine qualifiers, along with Yale and Penn State came qualifying eight men, displayed for midable talent but not enough to stimulate any champions hopes. Michigan state qualified four.

While some of the favorites fell by the wayside or were forced from competition, most of the stars survived the trials safely.

New York—Pulling on a pair of hip boots and wading through the turgid spilled by sobby boxing brethren he was wading the many and dirty deals given their particular "uncrowned champions," we run smack into Red Chapman.

Red Chapman has been to boxing about Bobby Crutchfield has been to golf—except that Bobby this year came into his own. Maybe 1927 will be as kind to Mr. Chapman.

MICH. QUALIFIES 16 MEN IN FINALS

Wolverines Favored to Cop Meet With Iowa and Badgers Big Threats

Madison—(AP)—Michigan went into the finals of the Western Conference outdoor track and field championship meet in the University of Wisconsin stadium Saturday an overwhelming favorite, with Iowa and Wisconsin threatening as contenders.

The Wolverines stepped into the favored position as a result of Friday's preliminaries in which they had the fortune to qualify 16 men in the eleven events.

The trials were held under wretched conditions, with a frigid wind sweeping the field and a downpour of rain beating in the faces of the athletes and they faced another misfortune on Saturday. The rain continued all night and early Saturday morning.

Despite the rain, Einer Hermansen of Northwestern achieved an unexpected preliminary victory in taking the measure of George Hester, Michigan's crack sprinter, in the first heat of the 100-yard dash. Hermansen defeated the Wolverine by an eye lash in the exceptionally fast time of 9.5-10.

Lovette of Michigan qualified in three events, the shot put discus and javelin. He tossed the shot 46 feet 3 inches for the best performance. Stiles of Illinois topped in the best half mile by winning his heat in 1:58 8-10, while Rasmussen of Ohio state headed the discus 135 feet, 8 3-4 inches to lead the qualifiers for this event.

Simon of Illinois leaped 23 feet 5-1-8 inches to lead the running broad jump finals. Captain Charles McGinnis, the versatile Wisconsin athlete won his heat in the 120-yard high hurdles in 3:5 2-10 without being extended. McGinnis was unable to participate in the pole vault and the high jump because trials in these events were called off on account of weather conditions.

Western conference basketball coaches met Saturday to draft their 1928 schedule and the faculty representatives of the Big Ten will renew their sessions begun Friday night.

PIRATES TAKE 9TH SUCCESSIONAL GAME

Increase Lead in N. L. by Win Over Cards; Sox Gain on Yanks

Treating the world champion St. Louis Cardinals as disrespectfully as they did the New York Giants a few days ago, the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday had rolled up a winning streak of nine games and a good sized lead in the National League. The Pirates knocked off the champs, 5 to 7, in a ten-inning setto Friday.

Meanwhile the Giants were taking one-two on the chin from Brooklyn, losing twice, 5 to 3 and 5 to 1. In both games Wilbert Robinson had the kind of pitching he has been signing for. Dazzy Vance pitched the first game and the second. Off the Silver Fox, the Giants sluggers could make but six safeties. The Chicago Cubs, who share the first division with the Pirates, Giants and Cards, clung to the heels of the Buccaneers with a 3 to 2 victory over Cincinnati in the eleventh.

The Boston Braves administered a double licking to the Phillies on their home grounds 8 to 1 and 13 to 5.

In the American League the Chicago White Sox won their fifth successive victory by beating the Tigers, 3 to 1, and thereby creeping up on the Yankees. The Yankees broke even with the Senators losing the first, 7 to 2, and won the second 5 to 9. Gehrig brought his home run total to 11, equalling Babe Ruth, his "home run twice."

Cleveland went a step ahead in the standings at the expense of the St. Louis Browns by scoring a 7 to 3 victory on faulty pitching and infield errors.

Helen Wills, Mrs. George W. Wightman, Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, Miss Marion Jessup, Miss Eleanor Goss, Miss Martha Bay, Mrs. A. H. Chapin, Jr., Mrs. J. D. Coburn, Miss Margaret Bice, Miss Wendolene Anderson and Miss Helen Jacobs.

Detroit—Paul McGraw, Detroit, defeated Cley Clark, Holyoke, Mass. (10).

Red Chapman Finally May Get Chance To Wear Crown

BY JIMMY POWERS

New York—Pulling on a pair of hip boots and wading through the turgid spilled by sobby boxing brethren he was wading the many and dirty deals given their particular "uncrowned champions," we run smack into Red Chapman.

Red Chapman has been to boxing about Bobby Crutchfield has been to golf—except that Bobby this year came into his own. Maybe 1927 will be as kind to Mr. Chapman.

It seems that this Chapman fellow has been passing contenders right and left for these many years but never came within a whisker of wearing the featherweight crown he so ardently sighed and slung mits for.

His biggest disappointment came last year when he was finally matched with the current king, Louis "Kid" Kaplan. Red trained and trained for the big shot of his life. And then what did Mr. Kaplan the Kid do? He resigned right in his face. Said he could no longer make the feather weight and was going up the scale a notch, leaving very grimacing Mr. Chapman positively pink with chagrin.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Neil Gonyo, former star athlete at Kaukauna high, was among those awarded from basketball tournaments at Marquette University. Gonyo was one of the best bats in the yeasting squad. When Gonyo got his sheepskin at Kaukauna, Coach Bill Smith predicted that he would gain fame in collegiate athletic circles. Cliff Countner, Appleton, "Chuck" Dolan and Benny Moser, Fond du Lac, and Claude Mayer, Oshkosh, also won numerals.

Charles Beyer, old time East Green Bay athlete and later coach at Lawrence college, added to his coaching success last week at Champaign when his Rockford High school track team carried off the Illinois championship. Beyer is turning out one winner after another at the Rockford institution.

Joe Shields, Appleton High baseball coach, is playing second base for the Wisconsin Rapids nine. The class of baseball in the Wisconsin river circuit is pretty fast but Shields should be right at home. Bob Insbrook, former White Sox first sacker, is also playing with the Rapids aggregation.

Frederickson, Green Bay second sacker, has been suspended by President Probstman for running into the umpire Wicher last Sunday in Oshkosh. However this was wasted energy on the part of the Valley league executive because "Fred" left Tuesday night for Sherwood, S. D., to play every-day ball.

"RED" SMITH CALLED BY NEW YORK GIANTS

Kimberly — Red Smith, the Notre Dame baseball star, has not been in the Kimberly lineup advertised for this weekend. Red received a notice to be in readiness the middle part of the week, and is awaiting a call to join the Giants in New York. Should Red receive this call before Sunday he will not appear with the Kimberly team. However at present there is no word for the presence of the Combined packs player.

The Kimberly band will be out for the Sunday game which will begin at 5:00 o'clock, rather than the usual 2:30. The game at Kimberly on Monday will begin at 2:30 sharp. Under top and Reubrick or Len Smith will be the pitchers for Sunday and Monday with either Smith or Hartjes on the receiving end.

BRITISH GOLFERS LOSE CAPTAIN FOR TOURNEY

New York—(AP)—Arriving without their captain, Alex Ditchell, who was unable to make the trip because of illness, the British Ryder Cup golf team still is hopeful of winning the Ryder Cup from an American team of professionals June 2 and 4 at Worcester, Mass. Ted Ray has been chosen to act as captain.

On their arrival Friday the English players were welcomed at dinner by their American rivals, captained by Walter Hagen.

Cleveland — Fidel LaBarbara, fly-weight champion, won a technical knockout over Willie LaMorice, Cleveland (10).

Kansas City, Kans. — Joe Rivers, Kansas City, won a technical knockout over Jack Nann, St. Paul, Minn. (5).

Boston—(AP)—Tiger Flowers defeated Sailer Eddie Hoffman (10).

TRACTION COMPANY WILL TEACH WOMEN HOME MANAGEMENT

Series of Classes Will Be Organized in Vicinity of This City

Along with the nation-wide movement to educate the American people in better home management, the sales department of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company, under the supervision of H. E. Hallett, will conduct a series of home management classes throughout the company's holdings. The Traction company has branches in a vicinity of 25 miles of Appleton and each community will receive the advantages of this new service.

Miss Mabel Burke, head of the Home Economics department at Appleton Vocational school for 14 years, has been engaged as Home Economist to conduct the classes. She is a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy, St. Paul, Minn., Blende school, North Dakota, and Lawrence college. She is considered one of the best Home Economics experts in the Fox river valley. She will start the work early in June.

Miss Burke's duties will be to demonstrate electrical labor saving devices, the shortest and easiest methods of preparing meals on gas ranges and Hotpoint Electrical ranges. She will demonstrate the best methods of using vacuum cleaners and washing machines. She has had much experience in home economics work.

"This experiment will not be a high pressure sales drive," Mr. Hallett said. "Rather we will attempt to teach the housewife how to use to better advantage the electrical appliances she already has and how to use them in the most economical manner for the greatest good. This new plan is based entirely on service to the public."

Miss Burke will show the housewife how to perform much of her work in a shorter time. She will point out to what extent electrical appliances are being used and the possibilities for using more electrical equipment. She will show what amount of time is saved through the use of electrical equipment in the modern home and what electrical labor saving devices available would be desirable additions to the average home. She also will show what electrical equipment the average home can afford.

An effort will be made to teach the housewife how to prepare simple dishes rather than how to tempt the palate with fine dishes that are expensive. One of the features of Miss Burke's work will be a demonstration of the Keivator Iceless refrigerator. She will demonstrate how to prepare many side dishes, salads and desserts with the aid of the refrigerator.

Local Investments Are Recommended By Babson

Babson Park, Mass.—Roger W. Babson has been asked by many readers as to what he had in mind when recommending "local investments" in a recent interview. Mr. Babson has been replying to these inquiries by stating that in most cases he would recommend the preferred stock of the local electric light and power company, and next to this would come local mortgages. For those desiring to avoid the trouble and unpleasantness connected with taking local mortgages, he recommends the stock of the local Building and Loan association. In view of present conditions, Mr. Babson's statement will be of especial interest to readers.

BUILDING AND LOAN VS. REAL ESTATE BONDS
"In view of the recent failure of the Adair Company in Atlanta, I wish to first make clear the difference between securities of a local Building and Loan Association and those of a Mortgage Bond Company. Building and Loan Associations in most states are mutual companies operated for the profit, but for the benefit of the respective communities. As these Associations make no money in connection with construction work, architect fees, etc., they are not tempted to take unseasoned mortgages. Furthermore, these companies take only mortgages on small homes which are mostly occupied by the owners. Such mortgages are believed to be the best kind of mortgages.

The money is loaned in small amounts to a large number of people, the homes are all occupied, and the total of interest and principal payments required of the owners is usually less than the owners would be obliged to pay as rent. As the loans are taken on a basis not exceeding 60 per cent of the value, the owner usually is readily satisfied, hence, very few foreclosures are ever necessary.

"Mortgage Bond Companies, on the contrary, are most always operated for profit and the promoters of such companies often receive their profits from the construction of buildings or from the sale of the securities. Thus the temptation is continually to construct more property and issue more bonds, irrespective of the economic demand. As there is less work for the promoters in building large buildings and taking large loans, rather than bothering with small buildings and loans, mortgage bonds are usually secured by a few large properties rather than by a large number of small properties. Many mortgage bond issues are directly or indirectly secured by hotels, and statistics show that the country is today overbuilt with hotels. Only a small percentage of hotels are profitable, investments and the constant failure thereof has decidedly hurt the market for mortgage bonds secured by hotels and certain kinds of apartment houses.

BUY HIGH GRADE FIXTURES, LOCAL PLUMBER ADVISES

Cheap Material Wears Out Sooner and Spoils Appearance of Home

Modern home owners are coming to realize more and more the value of good plumbing fixtures, according to Reinhard Wenzel of the Wenzel Plumbing company, 223 N. Appleton-st. Some years ago home owners paid much attention to the quality of furniture they purchased for their new homes but bought bath room fixtures without much thought to quality. Today they spent just as much time selecting bath room fixtures, Mr. Wenzel pointed out.

"Finally both rooms also are becoming a thing of the past," Mr. Wenzel said. "The family bathroom is all right until there is a family, and then the usual discussion arises. Many modern homes are including a bath room for each bed room of at least two or three baths."

Mr. Wenzel points out that many people have a mistaken idea about the cost of an additional bath room or two. They often take it for granted that one bath room is all they can afford, without even consulting a plumber on the matter.

Home owners often forget that each additional bathroom installation is an extension of existing water supply lines and drainage system which already is paid for. The cost of the additional bath room consists merely of fixtures and the installation. Plumbers are always glad to estimate the cost of additional bath rooms.

Many people have a mistaken idea about the difference in the cost of fixtures. Mr. Wenzel suggested that visitors be asked for in plumbing fixtures because it is the best material known to industrial science as applied to domestic sanitation.

With ordinary care, this china will retain its glistening newness long after the rest of the bath room shows signs of wear. Ordinary acids will not harm the surface, he said.

In the manufacture of vitreous china much the same process is used as in the manufacture of the finer grades of table china. The high development of the potter's art has made it possible to mold, cast, dry and fire lavatories, closet bowls, tanks, basins, bidets and other relatively large bathroom fixtures preserving all the more durable resisting features of high grade table china and at the same time adding a quality of toughness which most table china lacks.

You know the directors to be of high integrity. In the older communities these shares pay from 3 1/2 to 7 per cent, while in some other sections they pay as low as 5 per cent. Every investor may do well to buy some of the fully paid shares in his strong box. Everybody who buys anything from an automobile to a radio, on the installment plan should also buy some Building and Loan stock on the same plan.

GENERAL BUSINESS CONDITIONS
"These Building and Loan Associations are a real aid to every community as well as a benefit to those who borrow and to those who invest. In addition to educating the community to thrift, which is of great importance today, the money which one pays for Building and Loan stock goes toward the building of a home and hence is distributed throughout the community. When a new home is erected in your city, the city is better off both spiritually and financially. I say spiritually, because the American home is the safeguard of American liberties. The character of a community can be best measured by the percentage of home owners. The higher percentage of home owners, the better a community is spiritually, educationally and financially. Hence, investors are rendering the highest possible service with their money when purchasing shares in a Building and Loan Association. In addition however, to the moral features involved the money itself is of direct benefit to everyone. When a home is erected, the money is put back into circulation, being paid to those who furnish material, including cement, brick, lumber, hardware, etc., and to the laborer, carpenter, plumber, painter, plasterer, who in turn use their money to buy food, clothing, and comforts. Furthermore, every additional home adds to the taxable value of the community, the rentable value of all business property, and the general improvement of the town by its cleaning up and so on. This increased taxable value either gives the community more improvements or else reduces the tax burden for other citizens.

Now that there has been a decline in general building throughout many sections of the country, there should be either a reduction in building costs, or an improvement in building construction. This means that mortgage loans taken during the next few years, taken during the boom period from should be safer than mortgage loans which we are now encountering. The Federal Reserve bank now stands at 3 per cent above normal when considering all lines and industries, and all sections of the country. When, however, all building is considered no such situation exists. New building today is running slightly under that of last year. Hence, with most securities alarmingly high at the present time, this is an exceptionally good time to consider the purchase of Building and Loan stocks. Of course, one need not put too much money in any one company or any one community. Every good community, however, has a Building and Loan Association or Co-operative Bank, and an investor can distribute his money among several of these companies. It is only necessary to keep in touch with the management and make sure they are not who stand for what is honest, honest, and best.

BUY HIGH GRADE FIXTURES, LOCAL PLUMBER ADVISES

Cheap Material Wears Out Sooner and Spoils Appearance of Home

Modern home owners are coming to realize more and more the value of good plumbing fixtures, according to Reinhard Wenzel of the Wenzel Plumbing company, 223 N. Appleton-st. Some years ago home owners paid much attention to the quality of furniture they purchased for their new homes but bought bath room fixtures without much thought to quality. Today they spent just as much time selecting bath room fixtures, Mr. Wenzel pointed out.

"Finally both rooms also are becoming a thing of the past," Mr. Wenzel said. "The family bathroom is all right until there is a family, and then the usual discussion arises. Many modern homes are including a bath room for each bed room of at least two or three baths."

WAUSAU TOPS FLOOD QUOTA MANY TIMES

Wausau—(P)—Wausau's original quota for Red Cross flood relief work was $1,500. Later, when the amount was increased this quota was doubled, making $3,000. Wausau contributors weren't satisfied with their small apportionment, however, and so they "went over the top" a few times. At noon Wednesday, Wausau's flood relief contributions totalled $7,569.66.

WAUSAU IS FREE OF MEASLES AND FEVER

Wausau—(P)—For the first time in many months, the Wausau health bureau states the city is entirely free from any cases of measles or scarlet fever. But a few cases of less dangerous contagious diseases are in evidence.
